Course Summary

The Foundation Degree in Textiles Practice has been specifically developed for those wishing to develop professional practice in textile art, contemporary craft and designer-made products. The course will develop your technical skills in mixed media, stitch and constructed textiles, as well as focussing on researching ideas and developing original designs. Links between historical and contemporary practices in textiles will be made through guided research and individual practice.

The unique part-time course format has been designed for those from non-traditional learning routes and learners who need to organise study flexibly around other commitments.

The on-site Bradford College Textile Archive is widely used for teaching and independent student research. Students also have access to industry-led talks and activities via our industry links with the Bradford Textile Society, and local art networks. Students will be able to use a dedicated textile print room, handweaving looms, printmaking facilities, sewing machines, digital suites and a yarn store.

What You Will Learn

You will develop both practical skills as well as the theory and knowledge to put your techniques into place.

During teaching blocks at college, teaching takes the form of group critiques with peers, seminars, group presentations, lectures, workshop inductions, practical demonstrations and hands-on practical activity. The curriculum is enriched by external study visits, trips and visiting speakers.

Students will benefit from visiting speakers who are also practising artists who will talk about their work, set project briefs and deliver valuable tutorials. They will also set live briefs to give you a chance to work on exciting creative projects and bring them to life. Students will be provided with regular online tutorial support and be encouraged to experiment with colours and materials.

The course has been designed and written in a way that takes into account all previous artistic experience and mixed experience and skills and all our tutors are current exhibiting textile artists.
