Course Summary

Take your music skills to the next level with our UAL Level 3 Diploma and Extended Diploma in Music, Performance and Production. This course is designed for aspiring musicians, producers, and performers who want to develop advanced technical and creative skills. You'll work on professional-standard projects, perform at live events, and produce original music for a range of contexts.

As part of the Producing Academy, you'll collaborate with other creatives, gain industry insights, and build a portfolio that showcases your talent.

What You Will Learn

Immerse yourself in the world of music through practical, project-based learning. Develop advanced skills in performance, songwriting, and music production using industry-standard software and equipment. Work on briefs that challenge you to compose for film, TV, or games, produce professional-quality recordings, and manage live events. Alongside creative work, you'll explore the business side of music, including promotion, marketing, and distribution. By the end of the course, you'll have a portfolio of performances and productions ready for higher education or industry roles.
